Haunted Busan, Korea

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations

In 1981, I was an Intelligence Analyst with the 501st Military Intelligence Battalion at Yongson Barracks - Seoul, Korea. I had a 3-day job assignment in Busan, Korea. Wherever the Army sent me, I would always look for haunted places. I did manage to find a few haunted places with the help of my girlfriend at the time Yoon Sook Lee. Yoon being a psychic discovered some ghosts at Taejongdae Park. Yoon detected a female ghost that died by the hands of her abusive husband. The ghost displayed finger marks on Yoon's neck. The ghost explained to Yoon that she was choked to death by her murderous husband. This was the only encounter we had in Busan. The mysterious markings on Yoon's neck was good enough for me, after seeing the markings on Yoon's neck, I was a believer and knew Yoon actually made contact with a spirit. The year now is 2026 and I was reminded of Busan, when a movie came on called "Train to Busan". Busan in this movie is overrun by zombies, and it had me thinking....is Busan a haunted city? Come to find out, there are many ghosts in Busan. Let's take a look at some of the haunted places in the city of Busan.

The Brothers' Home:
From 1975 to 1988 The Brothers' Home was an internment camp (officially a welfare facility) located in Busan, South Korea. 657 people died at this internment camp. Most of these people did not die of natural causes, but died after being subjected to torture. The inmates to this facility were not only tortured, but they were subjected to forced labor and sexual violence. The facility contained 20 factories and held thousands of people who were rounded up off the street, homeless people, children, vagrants, and student protesters who opposed the government. The camp was used to perpetuate numerous human rights abuses in South Korea during the period of social purification. Subsequent investigations into the incident revealed that the inmates at Brothers Home were subjected to serious violations of human rights, including arbitrary detention and collective punishment. In some cases, the entire platoon would be beaten or tortured over the mistake of a single member. Widespread torture was common. Some of the torture came from fellow inmates that received titles that placed them into a higher category than other inmates. Inmates were often forced to keep painful and exhausting postures for prolonged periods and were beaten when they failed to stay still. In 2020, the Kukmin Ilbo reported accounts from a former inmate who claimed that director Park In-geun physically abused inmates himself and kept handcuffs and oak clubs in the director's office. He further claimed that he had heard rumors that about 40 to 50 inmates in Brothers were killed directly by Park himself. The Brothers Home was the inspiration for the TV series Squid Game. The Brothers' Home was also nicknamed "Korea's Auschwitz". The Brother's Home was a place of unimaginable brutal horror. Busan Ghost Pop (a paranormal group in Busan) conducted an outside investigation of The Brothers' Home and obtained several EVPs. In two of the EVPs, screaming could be heard. Shadow figures are sometimes seen outside of one of the buildings.

Geumjeong Fortress (Geumjeongsanseong)
Said to be haunted by the spirits of soldiers who died defending the area. Visitors report hearing footsteps or voices at night. Some visitors feel sudden cold spots and see shadowy figures near the walls. One tourist claims he saw a soldier that was missing his right arm. The tourist could see blood spurting out from where his arm was missing.

Pusan National University (PNU)
Urban legend says ghosts of students who died before graduating roam the campus at night. A student named Eun-chae Park saw 3 women holding hands and skipping along the grassy area of the university. Eun-Chae could see the women laughing and talking, but no sound was coming out of their mouths. Eun-chae thought this was odd and kept watching them. Eun-chae was shocked as she saw the 3 skipping women vanish. Eun-chae realized she just saw 3 ghosts.

Gamcheon Culture Village
Some stories claim a young girl's spirit haunts parts of the village. Several people have seen this young girl. Sometimes the ghostly girl will walk up to you and smile, before vanishing.

Taejongdae Park
Legends of a mysterious woman or “mermaid spirit” luring people near the cliffs.

Yeongdo Bridge
Emotional history from the Korean War (families searching for loved ones). Seo-Joon Cho, a local saw the spirits of an elderly woman and man walking along the bridge. The elderly woman looked like she was crying, she kept rubbing her face with a handkerchief. Other people claim that they hear disembodied moaning and crying.

Yeongdeok Haunted House:
Located about 1.5 to 2 hours north of Busan in Gyeongsangbuk-do, this is considered one of the three most haunted places in South Korea. It is said to be built over a mass grave of teenage soldiers from the Korean War and is rumored to be inhabited by hundreds of spirits. Several people have seen soldier apparitions walking around. People also have heard the sounds of marching.

Gyeongsan Cobalt Mine:
Also located in the Gyeongsang region, this site is tied to wartime massacres. Locals report hearing ghostly voices and seeing shadows in the abandoned tunnels. Many people have heard ungodly screams coming out of the mine.

HAUNTED DAISETSUZAN NATIONAL PARK

Location: Central Hokkaido, Japan

While Daisetsuzan National Park is not widely categorized as "haunted" in the same vein as Japan's notorious Aokigahara Forest, it is the site of a famous real-world mystery and a chilling legendary figure from folklore. There have been ghost sightings at this National Park. The indigenous Ainu people see the National Park as a sacred realm.

The Mount Asahidake SOS Incident

The park's most "haunted" reputation stems from a 1989 unsolved mystery near Mount Asahidake. Rescuers searching for missing hikers spotted a massive SOS sign made of 19 fallen birch logs. After rescuing the hikers, police learned they had not built the sign. A subsequent search revealed a skeleton, a backpack, and a tape recorder with a man's distressed voice pleading for help. Investigations suggested the sign had been there for years, but it remains unclear how a person with broken bones could have moved heavy logs to construct such a large message without tools. Hikers Sakora and her boyfriend Asahi Ito, in 2022 came across another hiker. As the hikers were trying to communicate with this lone hiker, he simply vanished. They realized what they saw was a ghost and they believe it was the ghost of the hiker that died at this location.

Yamauba Mountain Witch and the Mount Asahdake Hiker

Folklore and Legends
The park is associated with ancient spirits and supernatural entities. Regional legends tell of the Yamauba Mountain Witch, a fearsome mountain witch or ogress believed to haunt the northern wilderness of Hokkaido. Modern travelers and locals still share accounts of sightings or a general sense of dread in certain remote areas linked to her. Makoto Takahashi, a camper encountered the Yamauba Mountain Witch. The Witch touched his arm, and he felt intense heat. Makoto screamed and the Witch disappeared leaving a burn mark on Makoto's arm. When Makoto went to his doctor, there was no burn mark on his arm.

The Phantom Bridge:
The Taushubetsu River Bridge, a crumbling concrete railway arch within the park, is often called the "Ghost Bridge". It is not haunted by spirits but earns its name because it completely disappears underwater in summer and re-emerges in winter.

Ainu Sacred Perspective
The indigenous Ainu people call the park Kamui-mintara, which translates to "The Playground of the Gods". In their cosmology, the mountains are sacred spaces where gods (Kamuy) manifest as animals and natural features. Because of this, the park is viewed with deep reverence and spiritual respect rather than fear. Akane Yamamoto says the Park is a place of respect. If you are doing something that you are not supposed to be doing, you could be visited by the Yamauba Mountain Witch.

Jinn at Goreme, Turkey to the Chillingham Castle Ghosts
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations

JINN AT GOREME, TURKEY
Göreme and the wider Cappadocia region are widely considered "haunted" in folklore, largely due to legends of Jinns (spirits), abandoned cave dwellings, ancient underground cities, and creepy valleys that display echoes. While not officially documented, tourists report strange noises, feeling that there is a presence watching them, and unsettling vibes felt in old caves. Local traditions often speak of Cinler (Jinns) and fairies inhabiting the area's ancient caves and empty houses. Some locals grew up hearing stories of "drum-playing Jinns" and shimmering lights in the night sky, particularly around Uçhisar and the valleys surrounding Göreme.

Mustafa Yildiz, a local says that he has seen Jinn at the abandoned cave houses & underground cities. Mustafa says that there are areas dotted with hundreds of crumbling, empty cave homes and vast, dark underground cities (like Derinkuyu) where thousands once lived and died, creating a naturally eerie atmosphere. Mustafa says he encountered 3 tall and dark entities inside the cave house. A Jinn pointed to the entrance, suggesting that Mustafa should leave. The Rose Valley and Red Valley are frequently described as "haunted" due to their labyrinthine ancient ruins and forgotten rituals. Many tourists have seen little fairies flying about during dusk hours. Some fairies are seen carrying wands of light. The region is home to several "ghost towns," such as the Kayaköy Ghost Village, where an entire population was forced to leave in 1923, leaving behind empty windows and a palpable sense of "wrongness" that visitors still report today. Visitors and tourists have seen apparitions or odd mist moving about this village.

Areas like Rose Valley and its rock-carved churches are known for tales of ghost apparitions, forgotten rituals, and echoes from the past. Ali Ozturk has heard disembodied voices in the valley. Some of the voices are carrying on full conversation and when Ali investigated, there was no one there. Other tourists staying in cave hotels have reported strange, cold, silent, or "creepy" sensations in underground rooms. Staying in a cave hotel is the standard Göreme experience, but some guests have reported strange occurrences. Reviews of the Aza Cave Hotel mention hearing "strange growling" and feeling a "strange presence" at night. Deep subterranean cities like Derinkuyu and Kaymakli are described as hauntingly beautiful yet unsettling due to their cold, silent, and damp passageways that once housed thousands seeking refuge. Cold spots and hot spots are sometimes felt by the tourists. Ali once felt a hot spot that was so hot, he started sweating, then all of a sudden it became a cold spot. Ali has no explanation for that strange occurrence. My best friend Jeff Clifford and his friend from Turkey Ibrahim Dogan visited the Rose Valley. They both saw a strange man with an odd grin on his face. When they looked at the strange man, their back teeth started to hurt. When they looked back at where the strange man was, he was gone and the pain in their mouths went away. Ibrahim explained to Jeff, that they just had a Jinn encounter.

Now, let's take a trip to England and check out the spirits that haunt Chillingham Castle!

CHILLINGHAM CASTLE GHOSTS

Yes, Chillingham Castle is widely considered one of Britain's most haunted castles, known for numerous ghostly sightings and paranormal activity, including apparitions like the Blue Boy, Grey Lady, John Sage and other tormented spirits from its violent history, with phenomena reported in dungeons, torture chambers, and grand halls, attracting ghost hunters and being featured on paranormal TV shows. Let's look at some of the ghosts of this castle.

The Blue Boy of Chillingham Castle.
The Blue Boy was placed inside the castle's wall.

The Blue Boy:
A child whose spirit appears as a blue light or figure in the Pink Room, said to be a boy bricked into a wall alive. A child's agonizing crying is sometimes heard. During renovations in the early 20th century, workers found a child's skeletal remains hidden inside a 10-foot-thick wall in the Pink Room. Reports indicate the child's finger bones were worn down to the nubs, suggesting they desperately tried to scratch their way out. Remnants of blue fabric were found with the body. The Blue Boy is often seen as a bright blue flash, orb, or a "blue halo" before taking the form of a young boy. His presence is frequently preceded by low whimpering, cries, and a sudden drop in temperature. He is sometimes referred to as the "Radiant Boy" due to the glowing blue light that surrounds him. Despite the horrific origin, modern reports often describe him as a friendly, albeit sad resident.

The Grey Lady:
Lady Mary Berkeley, seen or heard rustling her skirt, searching for her husband who abandoned her. Often heard as the faint "rustle of a silk dress" in the corridors, she is said to be searching for her husband, who abandoned her for her own sister. Her presence is often accompanied by a sudden, wafting chill. Jill Sanders of Maryland says she captured an EVP of a woman saying..."where is he?"

The White Pantry Ghost:
A frail figure in white seen in the Inner Pantry who reportedly begs for water, possibly a victim of poisoning. Commonly reported phenomena include disembodied voices in the Chapel, phantom footsteps, cold spots, and batteries that drain unexpectedly. While some visitors find the atmosphere genuinely terrifying, others visit for the eclectic historical artifacts and unique, "unpolished" charm of the estate.

John Sage and the Torture Chamber:
Haunted by the spirits of tortured Scottish prisoners, including John Sage, the castle's brutal executioner, with reports of aggressive energy and spectral figures. John Sage (The Butcher of the Scots): A sadistic medieval torturer whose spirit is said to haunt the Torture Chamber and dungeons. Visitors frequently report feelings of unease, nausea, or hearing heavy, dragging footsteps in these areas.

Other Spirits:
Monks, Scottish soldiers, and other tormented souls are believed to roam the castle and grounds, with unexplained voices, cold spots, and phantom footsteps frequently reported. The castle served as a battle stronghold and prison during medieval wars, witnessing brutal torture, executions, and massacres, leaving behind lingering energies. People report feeling touched, seeing apparitions, experiencing drained batteries, and hearing disembodied voices, with some spirits interacting differently with men and women. The castle's reputation stems from its blood-soaked history of border skirmishes and brutal executions. A tourist named Lance Onslow of Port Orange, Florida witnessed a ghost of a Scottish soldier holding the side of his neck. Lance says that blood was squirting from his neck. Lance was shocked seeing this and thought it was an actor, only to see the Scottish soldier disappear.

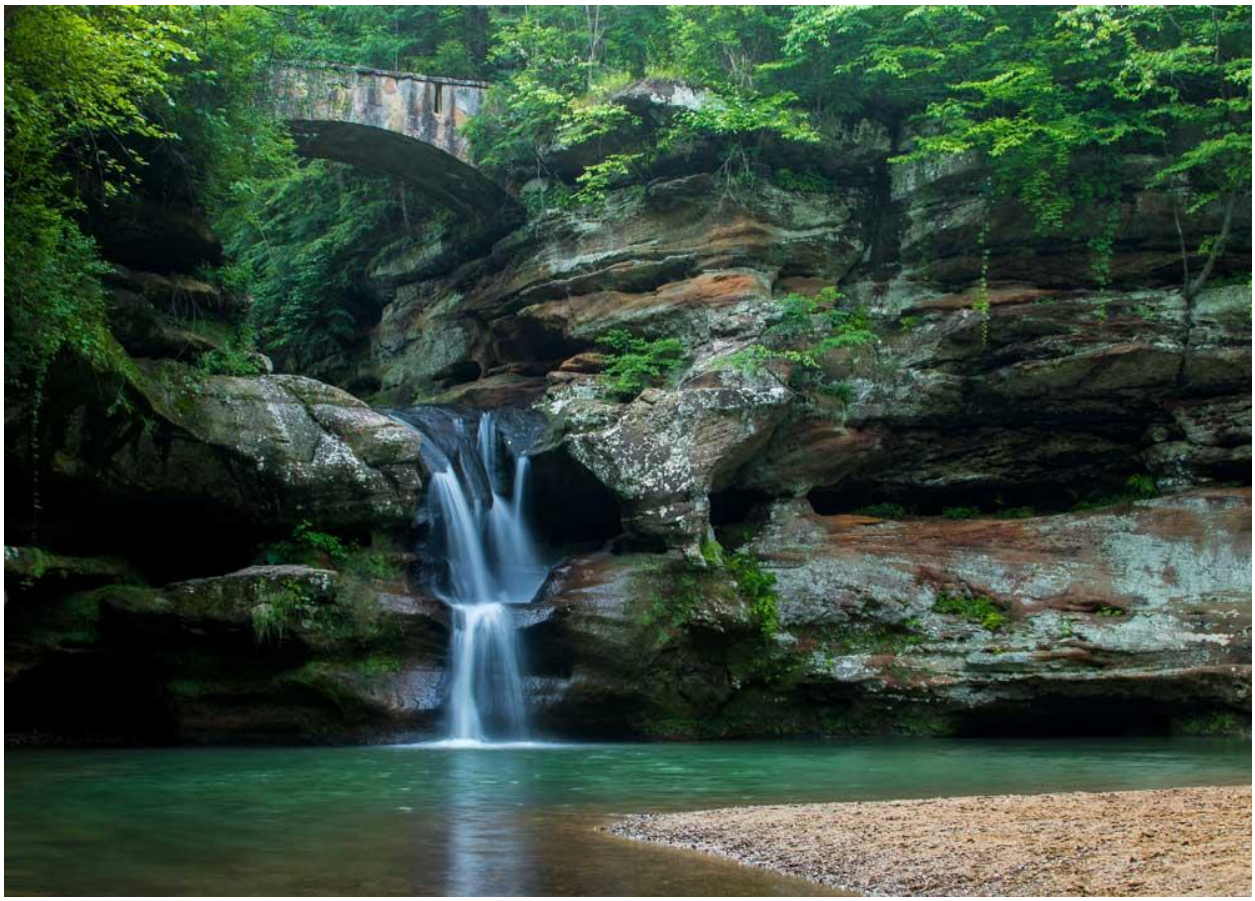
Hocking Hills, Ohio, is known for its numerous ghost stories and legends, with popular haunted spots including Old Man's Cave, where the hermit's ghost and his hound are said to roam; Ash Cave, home to a pale woman in 1920s attire; and the eerie Moonville Tunnel, haunted by a spectral engineer and others. These tales, rooted in local history, involve tragic figures like the "Old Man" (Richard Rowe), a lost trapper, and train wreck victims, drawing visitors seeking spooky folklore amidst the region's dramatic cliffs and caves.



Key Haunted Locations & Legends:

- Old Man's Cave: Named for Richard Rowe, a hermit who died there; his ghost and his hounds are
- often heard and seen.
- Ash Cave: Features the "Pale Lady," a mysterious woman in vintage clothing, and legends of
- pioneer children.
- Moonville Tunnel: A former mining tunnel where the "Engineer" (a train conductor), the
- "Lavender Lady," and other spirits are reported.
- Rock House: Said to be haunted by the ghost of a woman named Mary, found dead in her room.
- Dead Man Hollow: Echoes with ghostly cries from lost souls in Shawnee State Forest.
- Bloody Horseshoe Grave: A site of tragic history where legends of bleeding graves persist.

Why It's Haunted:
The deep gorges, sandstone formations, and rich history of settlement, mining, and railroading in Hocking Hills provide a natural backdrop for these tales, blending verifiable history with oral traditions.

Subject: A Haunting in Rio Linda: The Case of Cathy & Lulu Sat Jan 26, 2008 2:57 pm

BELOW IS A “BLAST FROM THE PAST!”

How many of you ever watch Sci Fi Channel's 'Destination Truth'? It's about a paranormal team that travels throughout the world in search of legendary monsters. Here's what the Sci Fi Channel says about their new show:

"From Neil and Michael Mandt, 'Destination Truth' takes us on one man's search for the truth in a reality show that investigates stories of the unexplained across the globe. The show, hosted by Josh Gates, is a credible investigation of these stories with a first-person style that often alternates between moments of dramatic tension and humor. Every week, Josh visits a different destination around the world that is home to notorious supernatural and mysterious stories, such as the Fire Worm of Mongolia or the Chupacabra of Chile. He attempts to get to the truth by talking to witnesses and experts while immersing himself in situations that, while bizarre, are real and relatable."

Destination Truth seeks out all things paranormal. HPI (Haunted and Paranormal Investigations) of Northern California has gone to the next level of investigations. Sure, we still do ghosts, incubus, succubus, poltergeists, demonic and residual hauntings, but we are planning to investigate some real life vampires, a possible werewolf that calls herself 'Lolita Moonshadow', Bigfoot, UFOs, Lemurians of Mt. Shasta and anything else that goes bump in the night! HPI like the Destination Truth team, seeks out the truth and we will do everything in our power, to find a scientific explanation. If all scientific explanations are eliminated, then we are left with one thing. The paranormal.

NEXT: The Demon Warrior throws holy water on a snake like demon.

Tonight was a hot and muggy night, but I knew it was a good night for an investigation. HPI is a large group, so there are always many things going on at once. Alicia Perry, Lead Investigator was having a 7pm meeting at the Coffee Garden to discuss her EVP findings at her pre-investigation of the Woodland Opera House with paranormal investigators Michelle Paykel, Cherie Vincent, Brian Colbert, Holly DeLaughter, Mary Casiano, John Wachter and Jennifer Baca. There will be more on the Woodland Opera House soon, when I attend the final investigation which is coming up soon. The EVPs that Alicia found were:

"No, it's a ghost", "conversation inaudible", "get out", "Black did it".

Tonight I had to work overtime, so I wasn't able to attend Alicia's meeting. After work I went straight up to Rio Linda to wait for the HPI Team that was assigned to investigate this abandoned home. The owner is allowing me to use the address of the location. The address is: 6225 26th Street. The house was built in the 1920s, it's an old wooden home, with a large yard, horse stables in the back. There are large oak trees and one oak tree is called the 'orb tree', because many orbs are seen in and around this tree. Further back, is a pet cemetery. Along the side is a huge garage and storage house, orbs are seen there too. Let's do a roll call.

Roll Call: Tim Hawkins - Lead Investigator, Justin Kohn - New Paranormal Investigator - Sensitive, Jennifer Baca - Scout -Paranormal Investigator, Cherie Vincent - Paranormal Investigator - Scout, Michele Stump - Researcher, Scout - Paranormal Investigator, Paul Dale Roberts - Ghostwriter - Paranormal Investigator - Scout.

Greeting us at this home were: Stephanie Ottaviani - Owner - Sensitive, Jewels Webb - Intuitive and Jeff Nichols. Stephanie described to me, that she has always been a sensitive and she likes to be referred to as a 'sensitive', while her friend Jewels describes herself as an intuitive, she can sense the presence of various entities at this home. When I interviewed Jewels, she told me that the entities of this dwelling have touched her, open cupboards, played a piano that no longer exists in the house (one time she said there was so much music playing, it sounded like a saloon). Jewels once saw a full figured apparition of a woman in a light blue dress, dark brown hair, wearing a big hat with feathers. Jewel was able to distinguish that the entity had a narrow face. The entity stared at Jewels and finally dissipated before her eyes.

In my interview with Stephanie, she was able to relate to me that she felt the attic was a portal for spirits. Her friend Jeff Nichols confirmed this and told me that every time they have placed a door on the attic, that the door has been knocked off. They can't keep a door on this attic that faces the backyard. Stephanie feels that something bad has happened at this house. Once she looked through the windows and saw white silhouettes moving back and forth. The white silhouettes were even talking amongst themselves in whispers. She has always felt presences at the house. Jeff's dog named Fudgie has detected paranormal activity too. Stephanie said that the house was remodeled and the living room area was made larger. While I was gathering all this information, Tim was busy doing an equipment count. The equipment used for this Friday, August 31, 2007 investigation were: digital cameras, video cameras, temperature gauges, digital audio recorders for EVPs, dowsing rods. Tim broke us into 3 recon teams. Team A was Tim and Justin. Team B was Michele and Cherie. Team C was Jennifer and I.

All three teams went into different sections of the house, that could include various sections of the backyard or frontyard. Jennifer and I staked out one room. Jennifer picked up a distinct barking EVP. Yes, I said 'barking', like a dog. The room was silent, when we played back the digital audio recorder, we heard a distinctive bark. We played it back for Stephanie and Jeff. Stephanie said she got goosebumps when hearing the bark, Jeff recognized the bark too. The bark was the bark of Lulu, an African Sand Hairless Dog, the mother of Fudgie. Fudgie did not bark at all this evening. We discovered that Lulu was buried at the pet cemetery. Stephanie said that one time, she photographed Lulu's grave and looked at the photo and saw Lulu as a phantom dog sitting on top of the grave. Jennifer hits the jackpot again and takes a few photos in the garage area. The photos are of HUGE orbs by a doorway and outside along the siding of the garage. I took a few photos near the 'orb tree' when I was with Jewels and there was a dozen or so orbs in one shot. Jewels says that she attracts the orbs, since she is an intuitive.

Tim and Justin are in one room and start feeling cold chills. Michele said that something tugged on her shirt. One of Justin's photos captures red streaks, he was unable to duplicate the photo and will analyze the photo later to try and determine what the red streaks were. (Photograph was analyzed and it was a trick of light). Cherie picks up an EVP, that says 'hi'. At the end of the investigation, Tim brought out his dowsing rods. Tim asked Jennifer to assist him. Jennifer also used the dowsing rods to verify various answers we received from an entity named Cathy. Jennifer, Tim and I asked various questions of Cathy. Since the dowsing rods will cross over for a yes and separate for a no, we discovered that the entity's name is Cathy. She is 17 years old. There are 6 spirits in the house. She died in 1916. She was pushed by her father and died. She was basically murdered by her father. She was murdered at another location. She considers her father as 'bad'. Her father is now with her in the spirit world. She is afraid of her father. Her father keeps her here at the house. The house was here during the time of her murder. Her mother is not present at this house. She doesn't want to be in this house. Cathy says Lulu is present in spirit. She said she would make a noise to confirm she was here, she didn't make that noise. She says she is English and there was miscommunication with Cathy as we tried to obtain her last name.

This was a very incredible investigation and everyone was quite shocked to hear an EVP in which a dog loudly barks and later to have it confirmed that it was Lulu by the owner and her friend. Lulu may be buried in the backyard, but she still makes her presence known. Stephanie suggested I photograph the attic. She took pictures in the attic once before and captured some orbs. When I took pictures in the attic this evening, no orbs were captured on film. I do believe something is haunting this dwelling and it seems to be restless with animal spirits and some human spirits, but this is only my thoughts on the matter. All findings have not been released yet as I write this article. Let's see what Tim adds to the FINDINGS and CONCLUSION.

As I am finishing this article, I am receiving emails from the team. They discovered the following:

Cherie Vincent picks up the following EVPs:
'Glad to.' When Michele Stump says may we take a picture of you?
'Help me.' The voice of a little boy.
'I don't think I like this.' Strong Spanish accent from a woman. No female member of the team has a Spanish accent.
Cherie took some pictures of the 'orb tree' and in some of the orb photos, there appears to be faces of dogs and one cat.
Justin Kohn picked up this EVP:
'Want to....stop this.' Female voice. Michele Stump is trying to determine if that was her voice on the recording.
Jewels Webb utilizes restroom and all of a sudden a horrible smell engulfs the restroom. The stench was so strong, she ran out and her top fell into the toilet. She had to change her clothes after this incident.

This ended our investigation in Rio Linda and Jewels took Cherie Vincent, Jennifer Baca and I, over towards the fence to pet the horses. The horses were gentle and looking for affection. This ended the perfect night as I drove home and turned my radio on CoasttoCoastAM and listened to the Betty and Barney Hill interview on their UFO encounter and abduction. Thoughts of the upcoming Mt. Shasta BIgfoot/Lemurian/UFO investigation came to mind. All happening October 13, 2007, Saturday! See you all there!

Not to change the subject, but I recently wrote an article called 'The World of Comic Books, I Mean Paranormal Comic Books' and some of you have suggested some other paranormal comic books for the paranormal enthusiast. Here are some of your suggestions: James L. White Hunter's Moon by Boom!; Jeremiah Harm by Keith Giffen; Sharon Scott's More than Mortal by Avatar; The Nightmare Factory - based on stories of Thom as Ligotti; The Templar Chronicles: Heretic #3 by Markosia; Vengeance of the Vapor #2 by Markosia; Blood Psi by Moonface Press; Miss Fury #1-3 - Pure Imagination; The Astounding Wolfman #2; Arkadian - No Witness by VLE Comics; Paolo Parente's Dust #1 by Image; Clash - Citizens League Against Super-Humans by Moonstone; Iron and the Maiden by Aspen; Hiding in Time by Shadowline/Image; Warren Ellis - Crecy; Dragon's Lair #4 by Arcana and Guy Ritchie's Game Keeper #4. When I received this list, I was questioning some of these comics. How can the Clash be paranormal, then a reader said...'remember Paul, anything that is outside the boundaries of the normal'. That would mean that Superman is paranormal! Superman is invincible, he can fly, he has heat vision, he has X-ray vision and on and on. Yep, even Superman is paranormal! Good point!

TIM HAWKIN'S CONCLUSION:
We caught a couple of EVPs that seem to have positive confirmation. First, Lulu's bark. Four of us were in the house when the bark took place. None of us heard the bark. When played back for the owner, she said it sounded just like her dog Lulu who was buried in the back yard. Also, during the dowsing rod session, I ask the entity Cathy if she is 17. On the recording, you can hear a faint "yes" just before I confirm that the rods crossed for a yes response. So far we have several other EVPs and a lot of pictures of orbs. We still are going through video, however, based on the above, my conclusion is that this home is definitely haunted. I can't wait to see what the video shows us.

Jewels Webb called me with more information. She talked with the neighbor next door and he said that his home was built in 1917 and the home we investigated was built in 1920. That at one time his home and the home we investigated, were one and the same property. He said that the Fords lived there in the 20s and a little girl died on his property. Could this be Cathy? Also, a black woman that lived on the some other property that knew the Fords, tried to drown herself at a creek nearby near the home we investigated.
